

Nearly 3 feet of dense, well bonded snow makes up the snowpack above 8,000 ft. in the Lionhead area near West Yellowstone. No discernible weak layers were found during stability tests. This pack is capable of supporting a large load and is a strong foundation for future storms. Photo GNFAAC

Advisory Region
Southern Madison

Forecast link: GNFAAC Avalanche Advisory for Mon Dec 3, 2012
Southern Madison, 2012-12-02